Hi Jacque,

We received an update from EPA headquarters this week regarding their review timeframe for publication of the next Federal Register rule to propose sites to the National Priorities List. Basically there is a change in HQ's briefing process that is adding time. It is uncertain to us here in Region 5 if the Fall 2019 Federal Register publication would occur at all. What we do know for sure is that it will not be in September or early October. We hope to get a better idea of the possible publication date from HQ next week. That doesn't take away from the news already known, which is that MPCA has recommended the site to the EPA for proposal to the NPL.

In any event, I had a few comments, which you can see in my mark-up and highlights attached. Feel free to make them conform to your edit styles and requirements if you choose to use them.

My colleague, Pat Hamblin, wanted to offer comments also, but he was tied up with visits from headquarters' chiefs and other moving pieces related to this site. Even if it's late for your go-to-print deadline, next week he might offer what he can as well as hopefully give us a better sense of the process timeline that continues to unfold.

Have a great Labor Day weekend!

Cori and Walker:

I've attached text of the special mailer I'm working on to go out by Sept. 16 to all of our residents regarding the Hwy. 100 and County Road 3 groundwater plume site. As I mentioned last week, we are trying to provide some historical context for residents who may be unfamiliar with St. Louis Park's history and also emphasize some of our success stories.

Most of the material has already been published elsewhere. Staff is also reviewing the material. I'd appreciate your feedback on the materials as well, preferably by end of day Aug. 28 if possible.

Heriberto, I'm copying you as well in case you have any comments.

Thank you!
